

Highlights from Saunders College of Business Alumni

Why Saunders/RIT?

As a Fulbright scholar, I did not really have much choice where I would end up, but RIT did meet my wish list: It is not in a major city and offers a diverse student population. The other wish was access to industry leaders either through instructors or guests. RIT delivered on that.

Real-world experience in the capstone project:

I completed a capstone project as a part of the MS in Management. It featured an NGO that deals with orphans and vulnerable children, a cause very close to my heart. The project allowed me to travel around NY state meeting aquaponics industry experts, connections that I would later exploit later in life. After graduation, I was asked me to stay with the organization for the implementation of the project on which I did a feasibility study.

Devoted faculty enhance education:

The distinct advantage gained at Saunders is the access to amazing lecturers (rockstars, as I fondly refer to them). I feel Saunders has been blessed with instructors nearly obsessed with quality. No matter how well I thought classes were going, they keep pushing us to do more, our best work could always get better and that's what they demanded. The small class sizes (low student to lecturer ratio) allowed for a better interaction with instructors.

Global perspective:

Most class has students from different countries and this made for interesting and informative debates. This also gave us amazing insights into different cultures and perspectives.

"I loved simulations and the capstone project, as they gave me near practical experience and a chance to apply the concepts taught. I would definitely recommend RIT to other students and give them a chance to be part of the tiger family,"

Nalane's comprehensive after-school programs target the 16 million children worldwide who have been orphaned by HIV/AIDS. With an increased focus on education, we'll help these kids enjoy healthy, successful lives.
